The utility and flexibility of the type of binary data is demonstrated by the example. This topic provides practical examples of activities involving the type of binary data and its three encoding schemes. In this topic, the binary data type can be used as an intermediate step in the conversion between hexagonal and base64 strings. Conversion from Hexadecimal to Base64 Using TO_CHAR, TO_VARCHAR: SELECT C1, TO_CHAR (TO_BINARY (C1, 'Hex'), 'Base64') FROM HEX_STRINGS; +-----+ | C1 | TO_CHAR (TO_BINARY (C1, 'Hex'), 'base64') | |-----+ | DF32EDE209ED5A4E3C25 | 3ZLT4GNTWK48JQ == | | AB4F3C421B | Q088QHS = | | 9324DF2ECC54 | KYTFLSXU | +-----+ | BASE REFORMATION64 IN HEXEDECIMALE: Selection C1, TO_CHAR (TO_BINARY (C1, 'BASE64'), 'HEX') FROM BASE64_STRINGS; +-----+ | C1 | TO_CHAR (TO_BINARY (C1, 'Base64'), 'Hex') | |-----+ | 3ZLT4GNTWK48JQ == | DF32EDE209ED5A4E3C25 | | Q088QHS = | AB4F3C421B | | KYTFLSXU | 9324DF2ECC54 | +-----+ + Snowflake ropes are composed of Unicode characters, while the binary values are composed of byte. By converting a string to a binary value with the UTF-8 format, you can directly manipulate the bytes that make up unicode characters. Convert strings of a single character for their UTF-8 representation in bytes using TO_Binary: C1 Select, TO_Binary (C1, 'UTF-8') From characters; +----+ | C1 | TO_BINARY (C1, 'UTF-8') | |----+ | A | 61 | | Af | | C3A9 | | A | E29D84 | | CF80 | +----+ | TO_CHAR (X'41424320E29D84', 'utf-8'); +-----+ | TO_CHAR (X'41424320E29D84', 'UTF-8') | |-----+ | ABC A | +-----+ | Convert the DIGEST MD5 track for a Base64 string using TO_CHAR, TO_VARCHAR, TO_CHAR SELECT (MD5_BINARY (C1), 'Base64') FROM variants; +-----+ | C1 | TO_CHAR (MD5_BINARY (C1), 'Base64') | |-----+ | 3 | 7MVIFKTc4V4OMI / Z8QE68W == | | 45 | binjzhjgrmlstlomag5jw == | | 'ABCDEFP' | 6ATQFWMJUPXYGTG8jBSXjG == | | 'CAfTfj A ©' | H6G3W1NEJSUY4DO1BEP2TW == | +-----+ | Conversion strings At binary values using a binary format extracted from the string. The statement includes the Try To Binary and split part functions: Select C1, Try To Binary (Split_Part (C1, ',', 2), Split_Part (C1, ',', 1)) as binary_value from strings; +-----+ | C1 | Binary_value | |-----+ | HEX: AB4F3C421B | AB4F3C421B | | Base64: c25vd2zsywtlclg == | | 736E6F77666C616B650A | | UTF8: CAfTfj A © | 63C3B474C3A9 | | ???: ABC | NULL | +-----+ | Try more formats for conversion: selection C1, coalesce (x'00' || try to binary (c1, 'hex'), x'01' || try to binary (c1, 'base64'), x'02' || try to binary (c1, 'UTF-8')) as binary_value from strings; +-----+ | C1 | Binary_value | |-----+ | AB4F3C421B | 00ab4F3C421B | | C25VD2Zsywtlclg == | | 01736E6F77666C616B650A | | CAfTfj © | | 0263C3B474C3A9 | | 1100 | 001100 | +-----+ | Note Since the questions mentioned above use try to binary, the result is null if the format is not recognized or if the string cannot be analyzed with the Indicated. Convert the results of the previous example to strings using substr, substrng and decode: Selection C1, to_char (Substr (C1, 2), DecodePare (Substr (C1, 1, 1), X'00', 'Hex', X'01', ' ', base64 x'02', 'utf-8')) as string_value from bin; bin; | C1 |. Since JavaScript UDFS supports the type of data via Uint8array (see JavaScript UDFS), you can implement custom decoding logic in JavaScript. This is not the most effective way to work, but it's very powerful. Create a function that decodes based on the first byte: Create My_Decoder (B Binary) function Returns the JavaScript language variant as' IF (B [0] == 0) {var number = 0; for (var i = 1; i
