The declaration of independence a transcription worksheet answers

In Congress, July 4, 1776. The unanimous Declaration of the Earth, the separate and equal station to which the law of nature and authorize god of nature, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impallano in separation. We hold these truths to be evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of Happiness .--That to secure these rights, Governments they are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to will seem more likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, in fact, will determine that long-established governments should not be changed due to light and transient causes; And consequently, the whole experience has Shewn, that humanity is more willing to suffer, while the evils are sufficient, which rightly abolishing the forms to which they are used to. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object shows a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government and provide new guards for their future security .-- such has been the patient suffering of these colonies: And such is now the necessity which builds them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, he let the facts be submitted to a candid world. He has refused his Assent to Laws him, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has forbidden his Governors to pass him Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation until his assent should be obtained of him; And when he so suspended, he has totally neglected to attend to them. He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would have given up the right of representation in the legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only. He called together legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only. purpose of taking care of them in accordance with him. He repeatedly has the representative houses dissolved, to oppose the virile firmness his own invasions on the rights of the annihilation, returned to people in general for their exercise; The remaining state in the average time exposed to all the dangers of the invasion from without, and convulsions inside. He was obliged to prevent the population of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of foreigners; Refusing to overcome others to encourage their migration here and raise the conditions of new land appropriations. He obstructed the administration of justice, refusing his consent to the laws to establish judicial powers. He made judges dependent on him will turn on him alone, for the possession of their officers and the quantity and payment of their salaries. He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent swarms quarters of officers to harass our people and Outside their substance. He held between us, in times of peace, peace, Armies without the consent of our legislatures. He struck to make the military independent and superior to civil power. It is combined with others to submit to a foreign jurisdiction to our Constitution and not recognized by our laws; Give your assent to their acts of fake legislation: for the trimesting large bodies of armed troops between us: to protect them, from a fake process, from punishment for all murders who should engage on the inhabitants of these states: to cut our business With all parts of the world: for imposing taxes on us without our consent: to deprive ourselves in many cases, the benefits of the trial by the jury: to transport ourselves beyond seas to be tried for pretending crimes to abolish the free English laws in a nearby province, establishes an arbitrary government and enlarging its borders in order to make it immediately an example and a tool in shape for the introduction of the same absolute rule in these colonies: to take away our charters, abolish the Our most valuable laws, and fundamentally altering the forms of our governments: to suspend our legislatures and declare themselves invested with power To legislatures and declare themselves invested with the power To legislatures and declare the power To legislatures and declare the power To legislatures and declare the power To legislatures seas, devastated our coasts, burn our cities and destroyed the life of our people. At this time the transport of great armies of foreign mercenaries to complicate the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of crueltã and perfidy poorly paralleled in the most barbed ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation. He bounded our fellow citriemmakers held in the high seas to endure his arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and their brothers, or to fall with their hands. He enthusiastiche domestic insurrections between us, and struggled to bring the inhabitants of our borders, the ruthless Indian savages, whose warning of war, is an indistinct destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions. At every stage of these oppressions we have sent a petition for compensation in the most humble terms: our repeated petitions have responded only with repeated injuries. A prince whose character is therefore marked by any act that can define a tyrant, is not suitable to be the sovereign of a free people. Né we wanted attention to our britews Brittish. We warned them from time to time for attempts by their legislator to extend unjustifiable jurisdiction over us. We remembered them the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We appealed to their native and magnanimitious justice, and we have evoked us with the links of our common course to dissuade these usurations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too were deaf in the voice of justice and the consanguineity, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too were deaf in the voice of justice and the consanguineity, the enemies at war, in friends of peace. We, therefore, representatives of the United States of America, in general congresses, assembled, attractive to the supreme judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, publishes solemnly and declare, that these united colonies are, and the right should have been free and independent; which are fulfilled by all the loyalty to the British crown, and that all the political connection between them and the states, they have full power for the withdrawal of the Conclude peace, the alliances of the contract, establish trade and to do all the other acts and things that independent states can do right. And for the support of this statement, with a solid dependence by Protection of divine Providence, we commit our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. Ã, spelling and punctuation reflects the original. In the Congress, 4 July 1776 the unanimous declaration of the thirteen United States of America, when in the course of human events it becomes necessary for a people dissolving the political bands that connected them with another, and to take between the powers of the earth, of the Separate and equal station to which the law of nature and the god of nature resembles you, a decent respect for the opinions of humanity requires that they should declare the same, which are equipped with their creator with some inalienable rights, which among these are life, freedom and search for happiness .-- Which to guarantee these rights, governments they are established among men, they derive their right powers from the consent of government tends to deny these purposes, it is the right of the people to modify it or abolish it and to establish a new government, bearing its own Foundation on these principles and organizing its powers in this form, as far as they seem more like them to make their safety and happiness. Prudence, in fact, will determine that long-established governments should not be changed due to light and transient causes; And consequently, the whole experience has Shewn, that humanity is more willing to suffer, while the evils are sufficient, which rightly abolishing the forms to which they are used to. But when a long series of abuses and usurpations, invariably direct to the same object reveals the design of reducing men to absolutism, is the right, it is their duty, to break down such a government, and to provide new guarantees for the Their future safety .-- This was the suffering of the patient of these colonies; And this is now the need to build them to change their former government systems. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a story of repeated wounded and usurpations, all having the establishment of an absolute tyranny on these states. To demonstrate this, he lets the facts be presented to a sincere world. He has His assent to healthier laws and e For the public good. He has prohibited his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation until his assent should be obtained; And when suspended, he absolutely neglected to participate in them. He refused to overcome other laws for the accommodation of great districts of people, unless those people have renounced the right for them and formidable only to tyrants. He called together legislative bodies in unusual, uncomfortable and distant places from the deposit of their public registers, for the sole purpose of taking care of them in accordance with him. He repeatedly has the representative houses dissolved, to oppose the virile firmness his own invasions on the rights of the people. He refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to raise others; For which the legislative powers, unaffected of the annihilation, returned to people in general for their exercise; The remaining state in the average time exposed to all the dangers of the invasion from without, and convulsions inside. He was obliged to prevent the population of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of these states; To this end it hinders the laws for the naturalization of the naturalization land appropriations. He obstructed the administration of justice, refusing his consent to the laws to establish judicial powers. He made judges dependent on his will be will go alone, for the possession of their officers and the amount and payment of their salaries. He made judges dependent on his will be will go alone, for the possession of their officers to harass our people and eat out their substance. He held among us, in times of peace, armies standing without the consent to their acts of fake legislation: for the trimesting large bodies of armed troops between us: to protect them, from a fake process, from punishment for all murders who should engage on the inhabitants of these states: to cut our business With all parts of the trial by the jury: to transport ourselves beyond seas to be tried for pretending crimes to abolish the free English laws in a nearby province, establishes an arbitrary government and enlarging its borders in order to make it immediately an example and a tool in shape for the introduction of the same absolute rule in these colonies: to take away our charters, abolish the Our most valuable laws, and fundamentally altering the forms of our governments: to suspend our legislatures and declare themselves invested with power To legislate for us in all cases. He has an abdicated government here, declaring us from his protection and his war against us. He plundered our seas, devastated our coasts, burn our cities and destroyed the life of our people. At this time the transport of great armies of foreign mercenaries to complicate the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of crueltã and perfidy poorly paralleled in the most barbed ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.
